On December 13th, 2011, the Xilam Group will be saying good-bye to its historic studios at 25 rue Yves Toudic, 75010 Paris, where it has been based for over 15 years, and moving all of its activities to 86-90 rue Notre-Dame de Nazareth in Paris's 3rd arrondissement.

Replacing the advertising agency Duke, a subsidiary of Publicis, Xilam will occupy the entire 1700 square meters of this six-story, independent building.

This move corresponds to the Group's growing needs and will allow Xilam to take advantage of an environment that is more conducive to its diverse activities. It will offer our talents, as well as our numerous partners, a more easily accessible, more comfortable and much more spacious setting to work in.

On December 13th, our phone numbers will remain the same, with the exception of the fax numbers. For all other contacts, please refer to our new address:
